Spada Says Ulster Receiving $100 Million If Bond Issue Passes

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Ulster County Republican Chairman Albert Spada, with a "firm commitment" from transportation chief Raymond T. Schuler that this year's $3.5 billion bond issue will include for Ulster County:

- Complete construction of the Kingston-Ulster Arterial.
- A new four-lane Albany Avenue from Foxhall Avenue to the Route 209 overpass on Route 9W.
- An Ellenville bypass on Route 209 and "major improvements" along its entire route in Ulster County.

And says now that he can "honestly go out and sell the bond issue to the people of Ulster County."

Spada, and Republican chairmen from other counties in New York State met with Schuler at the Governor's Mansion in Albany earlier this month and according to Spada, "Schuler laid the cards on the table."

Spada said Schuler didn't get into specific dollar amounts. "He's preparing a special report for Ulster County," Spada said. "We're expecting it sometime within the next two weeks"—said he came away from the meeting with the impression that "a lot of that money is going to be spent here in Ulster County. We'll be getting our share." Spada's estimate is "maybe $100 million, when you figure in the 90-10 (90 per cent federal, 10 per cent state) cost sharing formula."

Spada said he has had the complete support of Assemblyman H. Clark Bell in attempting to get Ulster's "fair share" from the upcoming bond issue. "Clark has been very forceful along with myself on this thing," Spada said.

Spada said that it was quickly pointed out by state officials (at the meeting) that Bell had voted against the Bond Issue in the state legislature this year, along with other upstate assemblymen and senators. "And I don't blame him," Spada said. "It looked like we wouldn't be getting anything from it. Clark's up there to represent our interests. He was just doing his job."

The fact that Ulster County voted dead last on the defeated 1971 bond issue was also brought out at the meeting with Schuler, Spada revealed. "I think that was just another example of the people voting against something because they either didn't know what it was about or they thought we weren't getting our fair share."

Schuler, himself a Kingston native, has apparently now convinced Spada and other Ulster County leaders that the county will get that fair share. The fact that Schuler's commitment, at this point, is only verbal doesn't seem to concern Spada. "Ray Schuler is a man of his word," Spada said. "He has always kept his word."

"We'll be asking everyone to go out and support the bond issue," Spada said. "These projects are of absolute necessity to the county."

The Kingston Ulster Arterial has been on the drawing board for years and apparently needs only the necessary funds to go into construction. The road begins in Port Ewen, crosses a new bridge on the Rondout Creek and connects with Route 32 near the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge.

Businessmen and public officials in the City of Kingston and the Town of Ulster have been petitioning the Department of Transportation for an improved Albany Avenue from Foxhall Avenue on out past the shopping plazas for an even longer period of time.

The Route 299 improvements originally called for creation of a major four-lane highway along the present right of way of 209 but there was strong protests all along the route, especially in the Stone Ridge area, and the state ultimately shelved that plan. Spada says plans now call for a complete resurfacing of the road, widening and straightening of curves where necessary and the creation of truck passing lanes at strategic points.

The Ellenville bypass would alleviate "very serious traffic congestion in the village," Spada said.

Spada allows that the cost of the bond issue in both principle and interest will be high but suggests that it should be "put in perspective." "From what Commissioner Schuler told us, this will cost each resident of the state an average of $6.69 per year over the 40 years of the bond issue, or a total of $268," Spada said. "But on the other hand, Schuler says that the per capita return in our region will be $953."

Spada now predicts that the bond issue will pass in Ulster County. "We weren't that enthused until we found out what was in it for Ulster County," he said.

SMILING THRU—Vice President Spiro Agnew, in the midst of allegations of wrongdoing, still finds time to laugh as he shares joke with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger

Vice President Agnew Gains Some Defenders

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — For the first time in history, evidence concerning an incumbent vice president has been presented to a grand jury. One witness labeled the inquiry a "fishing expedition," and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., claimed in Washington that Spiro T. Agnew was "framed."

The 22-member grand jury, meeting under strict security, was believed to have heard at least four witnesses Thursday at the federal courthouse in downtown Baltimore before recessing for the week. Most witnesses also were shielded from the press.

U.S. Attorney George Beall and his team of federal prosecutors at the direction of Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson began presenting the grand jury with evidence gathered in their investigation. Beall notified Agnew Aug. 1 the investigation concerned possible violations of conspiracy, extortion and bribery.

The panel had been meeting since January to consider allegations of cash kickbacks to Maryland political figures from contractors.

Agnew has told friends any hope he may have had for the presidency in 1976 "is over now." The New York Times reported in today's editions.

"He has been destroyed politically and knows it," Times writer James Reston reported. "But he will not go quietly, for that would look like a confession of guilt, and that, he testifies because federal prosecutors insist, is a confession he will never make."

J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, said the vice president would fly to Palm Springs, Calif., today as a three-week guest of entertainer Frank Sinatra. He said Agnew would make a speech Saturday before a group of Republican women in Los Angeles and "won't be ducking the subject" of his legal problems. "But I don't expect a point-by-point rebuttal."

The first person called before the jury Thursday was William J. Muth, public relations vice president of an engineering consultant firm and former vice president of Baltimore City Council. He is a longtime friend of Agnew.

Muth told UPI he refused to testify because federal prosecutors had never told him what the investigation was about. He said he was excused.

Muth said he was offered limited immunity from prosecution turned it down and also ignored a request to bring with him records dating back to 1960.

"It's a fishing expedition," he said. "If they're going to use this star chamber, it's one of the worst things ever perpetrated in American politics." At another point he told reporters: "This whole investigation is a lot of bull—"

In Washington, Goldwater said before UPI television news cameras he believes Agnew has been framed, and should "fight this thing right through to the bitter end."

Jews Kidnaped by Arabs

VIENNA (AP) — Two Arab terrorists armed with submachine guns commandeered a train with 37 Soviet Jews at the Austrian-Czechoslovak border today, officials said.

One police account said the Arabs shot and killed one man and injured two, but the state security police said no one was killed, and only one person was injured.

The Arabs then took five Soviet Jews hostage, along with a woman and a child of unknown nationality and an Austrian customs official. They forced the five Jews and the customs official into one of the railway's station wagons and sped off to the Vienna Airport. The woman and child managed to escape in the confusion, police said.

The station wagon was parked near a Spanish airliner at the airport and police were negotiating with the Arabs.

The train originated in the Soviet Union and was to be attached to a train en route from Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, to Vienna. In Vienna, the Jews from Arab countries that Moscow was helping the Jewish state by sending manpower to or to their emigration to Israel, Israel.

The train was seized at Marchegg, 28 miles east of Vienna.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli officials canceled their Jewish new year holiday to follow the events in Vienna.

Foreign Office and other executives said no official report of the seizure had yet reached Jerusalem, where government offices were closed for the three-day Rosh Hashana holiday.

The attack came just two days after Israel managed to rush in 1,000 new Soviet Jewish emigrants by airlift from Vienna in time to celebrate the holiday in the Jewish state.

Russian Jews have been arriving in Israel at the rate of 2,650 a month, over protests from Arab countries that Moscow was helping the Jewish state by sending manpower to or to their emigration to Israel, Israel.

The emigrants are processed by Jewish Agency officials at the 800-year-old Napsburg Castle outside Vienna. After anything from 24 hours to several weeks in Austria, the newcomers are flown to the Jewish state in Israeli El Al airlines planes.

The provision, said the Minnesota Democrat, would affect troops "primarily and entirely in the Pacific and scattered areas" and thus would not harm the administration's talks with the Soviet Cuba. Today, with U. S.-Soviet

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who met with Gromyko earlier this week in New York, was scheduled to sit in and then to lunch with Gromyko at the Soviet Embassy. Gromyko has made annual visits here for many years.

Vincent McCarthy Interviewed

Profile of a Robbery Suspect

KINGSTON Alexandria, Va., was captured by Kingston Police as he emerged from the Banker's Trust office at 301 Wall Street after police received a call from a bank employee informing them of the robbery.

McCarthy, who agreed to an interview with The Freeman Thursday afternoon at the Ulster County Jail where he is being held on a charge of second degree robbery, said that due to personal and other problems "I was reaching the end of my rope."

McCarthy, 32, explained that he is an ex-convict, having spent 7½ years in state prisons after being convicted on charges of second degree assault and burglary, and that since getting out of prison in 1969 he has had great difficulties in getting and keeping jobs. That situation, coupled with personal problems, caused McCarthy to become "depressed" enough to want to commit suicide.

ALL DRIED UP—This lady may have a long walk before she's able to fill up her gas can. Nearly half of the 1,500 service stations in the St. Louis area closed at midnight Wednesday for six days as a protest of Phase IV price rollbacks on the cost of gas. The announcement sent motorists scurrying to the nearest open station and off-duty police were called out to control the traffic jams. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Purchase of Fire Trucks Questioned by Candidate

KINGSTON

Republican Mayoral Candidate William B. Merrill has raised "a number of questions" concerning the city's recent purchase of two new fire trucks, specifically the 100-foot aerial ladder truck for the Fair Street Station.

The Common Council, at its Sept. 4 meeting, authorized the transfer of $150,000 from the revenue sharing account for the purchase of the trucks. The Fire Commissioners approved bids for two trucks from the Seagrave Fire Equipment Co. of Wisconsin at a total cost of $127,500 on Sept. 20.

"With particular reference to the 100-foot ladder truck," Merrill said, "bid specifications require a width of 96 inches as per state highway regulations and a height of less than ten feet, but nowhere in the specifications is the length of the truck specified, according to all reports."

Merrill contends that only a truck of 36 feet in length or less could be used because of the size of the Fair Street Fire Station. "I am questioning the fact that only one manufacturer had that size truck and that bid was accepted for a 36-foot truck from the Seagrave Fire Company."

How did the successful bidder know the correct length when there was no mention of size in the specifications," Merrill asked. "It appears that prejudicial bidding practices have been used."

Merrill also questioned the delivery date on the fire truck, 90 days, according to contract specifications put out by the Fire Department. "By contacting a number of reputable fire equipment manufacturers,

I have learned that it would take a minimum of a year to build that truck," Merrill asserted.

Merrill insists that he is not raising the issue of "collusion" on the bids, but does suggest that "if only one manufacturer can produce this type of truck in 90 days it could well serve to eliminate competitive bidding, the purpose of which is to purchase the most economical equipment that meets specifications as required by law."

"Also, I wonder whether the federal government would be interested in this bidding situation as actually the city is dealing with federal revenue sharing monies," Merrill said. "Alarm bells should be ringing in the minds of every taxpayer in the city of Kingston," Merrill concluded.

Blast Rips Manhattan ITT Site

NEW YORK (AP) — A powerful explosion ripped through offices early today of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. in a midtown Manhattan skyscraper.

Authorities said no one was injured and no fire resulted from the blast on the ninth floor of the 41-story ITT American Building.

Meanwhile, in Rome early today, a small bomb was thrown at the office of ITT Standard S.A., the Italian subsidiary of the American conglomerate. The blast slightly damaged two doors. Police said unidentified persons had climbed over an iron fence surrounding the building on the northern edge of Rome.

The building struck in New York is near the giant telecommunications corporation's world headquarters on Park Avenue.

Chunks of concrete, wood paneling, glass shards and shreds of drapery littered 50th Street near Madison Avenue after the explosion.

"It was a tremendous blast because you got the vibration all the way down here," said a security guard who was in the lobby of the building at the time of the explosion.

The New York Post reported receiving a telephone call shortly after the blast in which a young male caller said: "We're going to attack ITT." According to a Post editor, the caller did not identify himself but said he was from the "Weather Underground."

Police gave no immediate assessment of damage in the blast. ITT offices occupy the second through 11th floors of the concrete-and-glass building.

Esopus Zoning Board Approves Two Variances

TOWN OF ESOPUS — Two variances were approved recently by the Town of Esopus Zoning Board of Appeals.

The board approved an application for a variance allowing construction of a storefront and apartment complex at Broadway and Hamilton Street in Port Ewen. Three shops and four residential units are included in the plans. The variance was required because off-street parking accommodations did not meet requirements of the zoning ordinance.

Also, the board approved an application for a variance that would permit construction of a one-family residence in a commercially zoned area on Route 213 in Rifton.

Public hearings on the variance requests were held earlier this month.

Resignation Is 'News' to Lomenzo

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo says reports he will resign are "news" to him, but a capitol source has told UPI that "it's just a matter of time" before Lomenzo leaves the Rockefeller administration.

Lomenzo Thursday issued a gingerly worded statement following publication of the resignation speculation claiming it was "news to me" but avoiding any flat denial that he would resign.

"I have no information other than that Mr. Lomenzo is continuing to serve," a spokesman for Governor Rockefeller said, adding that the governor also had declared it was "news" to him when told of the story.

Speculation concerning Lomenzo's possible resignation has been rife since his involvement in the awarding of a state university building contract several years ago became publicly known last May.

The Schenectady Gazette Thursday morning said "sources in the Rockefeller administration" said it was understood Lomenzo would soon step down. Capitol sources said timing on the resignation was important so as to prevent it from appearing that Lomenzo was being forced out of his job.

Following the published reports of Lomenzo's connection with the awarding of the construction contract, Rockefeller ordered a "full report" on the investigation.

In his statement, Lomenzo said "A newspaper report to the effect that my resignation is imminent is news to me. At no time have I discussed the subject with anyone and have no idea where the rumor upon which the report is based came from."

The secretary of state added, however, "in the light of my obligations to my large family I have naturally given thought from time to time over the last two years to my future and theirs and the appropriate time to return to the private sector, and continue to do so although I have no definite plans at the present time."

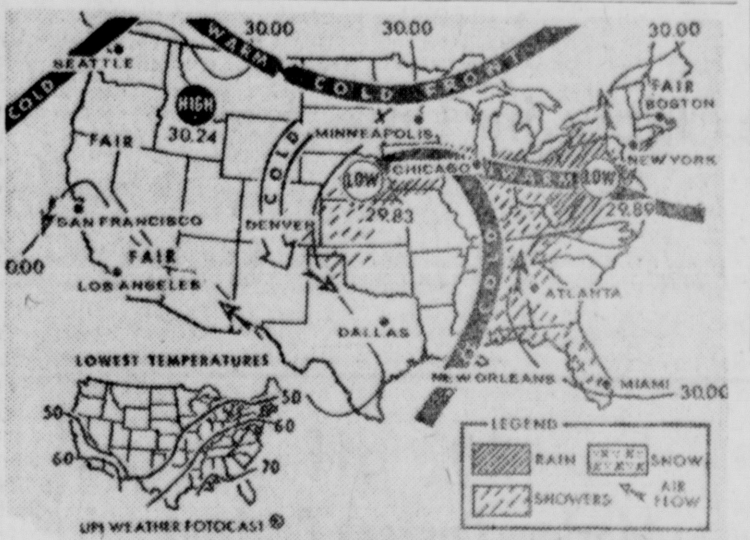

Lomenzo interceded with the state university building funds in 1967 in the awarding of a $6.44 million contract for construction at the State University at Fredonia to the Albert Elia Building Co. of Niagara Falls.

Elia was the low bidder but had not gotten the contract and Lomenzo defended the intercession saying that he simply brought the two parties together to discuss their differences and received no compensation.

Published reports said Elia had paid the law firm of Sidney J. Salzman of Rochester $80,000 in 1967 and that Lomenzo received $40,000 from the firm. Lomenzo said the money received from Salzman from 1965 through 1971 was to buy out his part in the firm.

Rockefeller ordered the organized crime task force, headed by Assistant Attorney General Robert Fischer, to issue a report. A month later Rockefeller said Fischer had reported that Lomenzo had not violated the public officers law.

Soviet Spacemen Orbit the Earth

MOSCOW (UPI) — A pair of Russia's first manned space

The Tass news agency said the Soyuz-12 took off Thursday on a two-day mission apparently aimed at getting the Soviet Union's crippled space program p.m. Thursday and ground ready for a joint U.S.-Russian stations were maintaining regular radio and television contact

Tass said the brief flight, the first since three cosmonauts died June 30, 1971, when their capsule depressurized on re-entry, was mainly designed to test a redesigned spacecraft for spacesuit and helmet.

The agency said the two cosmonauts have usually not worn Soyuz 12 cosmonauts, pilot Lt. Col. Vasily Lazarev, 45, and American astronaut Oleg Makarov, 40, were testing "structural modifications" introduced in the latest Soviet launch came

It said the goal of the mission was "to comprehensively check Skylab and test the modified on-board systems, to further develop the processes of manual and automatic control" and to photograph parts of the earth. Tass reported Thursday night the cosmonauts feel well and the craft's on-board systems are functioning normally. The news agency said the spaceship blasted off at 3:18 p.m. Thursday and ground stations were maintaining regular radio and television contact

U.S. Commander Talks About Joint Venture

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Rockwell International plant American commander of the working on experiments for the spacecraft that will dock with an uncrewed Soviet ship in orbit in 1975 said the Soyuz had several systems changes after the flight is the first of at least two Soyuz 11 flights in June, 1971, in which three cosmonauts died when their cabin atmosphere escaped through a hatch leak.

Astronaut Thomas P. Stafford, veteran of three space flights, said Thursday that the first manned Soviet flight in two years was undoubtedly test modifications made to the Soyuz.

"They told us they were probably going to fly at least two more (Soyuz) before our flight," Stafford said in a telephone interview from Downey, Calif. He was at the returned from his longest spaceflight, and Ronald E. Evans, Apollo 17 command module pilot.

A 47-member NASA delegation begins discussions with their Soviet counterparts Monday in Moscow. The technical talks will cover experiments, safety reports, communications, crew training, mission control operations and the docking system that will enable the Soyuz to dock with an Apollo. The American officials also will be the first Westerners to visit the Russian mission control center near Moscow.

Skylab 2 Astronauts Rejoin Families

HOUSTON (UPI) — Three happy and healthy Skylab 2 astronauts spent their first day at home in three months today after rewriting the space record book with 59 days of adventure, hard work and fun.

Alan G. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, still a little weak but feeling fit after two months of weightlessness, were starting a long series of debriefings about the flight after a jubilant reunion with their families Thursday night.

Stepping from the future into the past, the astronauts were greeted by their wives wearing long, colorful 19th century gowns and bonnets as the men emerged from a NASA jet at Ellington Air Force Base. They flew from San Diego, Calif., where their recovery ship brought them after their return to earth Tuesday.

Crowd Kept Back
A crowd of 500 well-wishers, including the fliers' children, were kept 100 feet back to protect the men from common earth germs while they readapted to living on their home planet.

Two Space-Born Minnows Found Dead in Container

HOUSTON (UPI) — Four tiny minnows that endured weeks of weightless space flight aboard Skylab apparently died for lack of food during the last part of their journey home.

The fish, the last of 50 born during the two-month Skylab 2 mission, were dead when the container in which they were rearing home was opened at the Johnson Space Center. They had been alive when the crew brought them back to earth Tuesday, and were still swimming when shipped Wednesday from San Diego, Calif.

"We had hoped they would survive the entire mission," said Dr. Richard Simmonds, the JSC veterinarian in charge of the minnow experiment. "It was simply a case of being so long without food."

Guerrilla Ends Siege At Mexican Embassy

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — A leftist militant released the captive son of Mexico's ambassador Thursday night, put down his "weapons," a toy grenade and a bucket of water, and took off on a flight to Paris.

The drama ended a 24-hour siege at the Mexican Embassy, where the suspected guerrilla threatened to blow up the boy with a hand grenade and a bucket of gasoline.

The leftist, Manfredo Casado, released the hostage unharmed at Las Americas International airport and then boarded an Iberian Airlines plane for Paris, with a stop in Madrid.

The 12-year-old boy, Cuilaquac Garcia Medina, rushed into the arms of his parents as the ordeal came to a conclusion.

Police said Casado left his weapons behind in an airport waiting room. They said the grenade turned out to be a green-painted toy and the pail was filled with water, but they let him leave anyway.

Casado, 35, had lived in the embassy for more than a year as a refugee because he had been denied permission to leave the country for alleged "criminal activities." He was identified as a member of a pro-Castro group, the Dominican Peoples' Movement.

President Joaquin Belaguer said he ordered the safe conduct for "strictly humanitarian reasons" to save the boy's life.

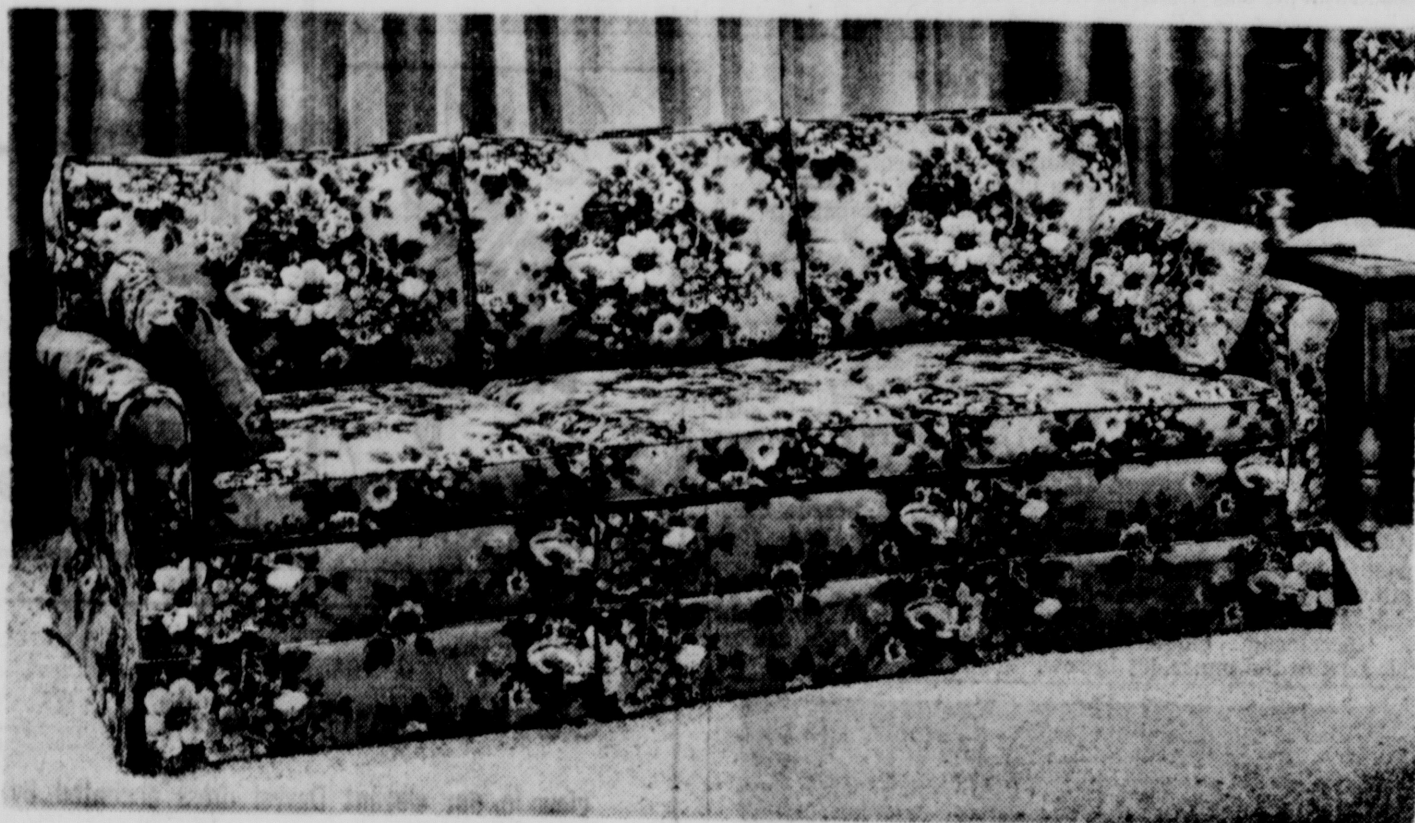

Casado took the boy hostage in an embassy bedroom Wednesday and sent a note listing his demands to the father, Mexican Ambassador Francisco Garcia. According to the embassy, Casado and the boy had been friends and often played cards in the bedroom.

Agnew Now Needs 'The Miracle of '76'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever happens in the case of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the imprint of accusations and scandal will mark indelibly the presidential politics of 1976. And, barring a political miracle, what has happened already will mark Agnew out of that campaign.

Two months ago, Agnew was rated an almost certain candidate and likely top contender for the Republican nomination to succeed President Nixon.

Now, accused of involvement in political graft in Maryland, the vice president is battling to clear himself and survive in the job he holds. Agnew denies wrongdoing, and says he is confident of ultimate vindication.

But the presumption of innocence usually doesn't work in politics. Suspicion is enough to undo a candidate. In a political environment already clouded by the Watergate scandal, both Republicans and Democrats are likely to seek in their 1976 candidates an image of absolute integrity untarnished by such suspicion.

Candidates for the nominations may well try to outdo each other in presenting themselves as men free of possible challenge or suspicion. Such a political atmosphere could create a problem for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who leads in the early Democratic polls despite the lingering memory of Chappaquiddick.

It is ironic that earlier this year, Agnew was regarded as a Republican likely to find advantages in a future campaign marked by the issue of political integrity. When the White House was besieged by the disclosures of political wrongdoing and cover-up in the Watergate scandal, Agnew was untouched. Now, accusations of personal wrongdoing against Agnew are to be presented to a federal grand jury. Agnew associates accuse White House officials of trying to force the vice president to resign.

Energy Crisis Causing New Problems

United Press International The energy shortage gripping America is causing new problems: delays in highway construction and shortages of sugar.

In attempts to help the problem, a House committee has approved a mandatory fuel allocations; the United Foundation in Detroit decided against burning its traditional 44-foot torch during this year's fund-raising drive; a regional commission in New England allocated $385,000 for a study of the area's energy problems; and a trio of Southern governors threatened to withhold fuel from any state that, for environmental reasons, holds back on refinery and exploratory operations.

J. Phillip Richley, director of the Ohio Transportation Department, said a dwindling national supply of crude oil for making asphalt will result in the delay of completion of at least 34 state highway paving and construction projects.

William R. Ralls, of the Michigan Public Service Commission, warned sugar is suffering from the energy crisis. "Michigan housewives depend on state farmers for 90 per cent of their sugar and the industry is now critically short of fuel to process a sugar beet crop," he said.

The House Commerce Committee has approved legislation directing President Nixon to impose mandatory fuel allocations within 25 days. The Senate approved a similar bill last May.

Sponsored by Rep. Torbert H. McDonald, D-Mass., the bill would guarantee that independent marketers of gasoline and fuel oil, including branded, non-branded, and franchised dealers, could receive supplies.

The United Foundation in Detroit announced it will not burn its 44-foot torch during the annual charity torch drive campaign this year because of the energy shortage. "We thought the gas could be put to a better use," a UF official said.

In Salem, Ore., City Council approved a six-month moratorium on construction of street lights in residential areas.

Oklahoma Corporation Commission Chairman Charles Nesbitt predicted defeat of any effort by Southern governors to curtail fuel exports to other states.

The governors of Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma threatened earlier this week to refuse fuel to states that hold back on exploration and refinery operations for environmental reasons.

"They may feel that it has some value as a threat," Nesbitt said. "To go ahead and accomplish it is something I don't think the governors can do."

The New England Regional Commission has authorized the expenditure of $385,000 for studies and programs aimed at solving the region's immediate and long-range fuel problems.

Road Manager Arrested In Rock Body Snatch

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Philip Kaufman, 38, road manager for rock singer Gram Parsons, has been arrested on charges of stealing Parsons' body, which was later found burning in Joshua Tree National Monument.

Police do not know why the coffin containing Parsons' body was set afire, but speculated that the motive may have been a funeral ritual, or an attempt to destroy evidence of some kind.

Kaufman was arrested at his home in Van Nuys on a charge of grand theft.

Another suspect, Michael D. Martin, 26, of Hollywood, was still being sought, police said.

Parsons, 27, died last week, apparently of a heart attack, while vacationing in the town of Joshua Tree near the national monument in the desert east of Palm Springs, Calif.

His body was at the Los Angeles Airport awaiting shipment home to New Orleans when two men drove up in a hearse and claimed it, saying Parsons family had arranged for the remains to be flown east on a chartered plane leaving from the Van Nuys Airport.

Parsons' family said they had made no such arrangements. Campers in the national monument found the smoldering coffin the next morning.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The would-be developer of a Catskills condominium project must find a way to get rid of sewage without dumping it in the Schoharie Creek.

State Environmental Conservation Commissioner Henry Diamond on Wednesday ordered that construction on the project not begin until a satisfactory way of disposing of its sewage is found. Schoharie Creek, Diamond said, is "one of Greene County's most popular trout streams" and "discharge of more sewage, even after treatment, poses too great a threat to aquatic life."

The proposed project, Hunter Highlands, is to be located next to the Hunter Mountain ski resort in central Greene County. Plans call for 100 condominium units and a 70-unit motel.

Low Blow from Canada

As if the energy crisis in the United States wasn't bad enough, this nation faces another threat as a result of unexpected action by our neighbor to the north.

The Trudeau administration of Canada, with no advance notice, canceled all applications to export crude oil to the United States. Then it announced that it would accept new applications provided there was a 10 per cent mark-up on each barrel of crude, or close to $5 per barrel.

Mr. Trudeau maintains the move is essential in Canada's own fight against inflation. His administration sees $15 million monthly being collected by the federal government through the price hike.

Since the United States also is battling desperately to check the inflationary spiral and restore a more balanced economy, it might seem inconsistent to criticize another nation for doing likewise. But there are some noteworthy differences in the actions taken by both nations.

This country has concentrated principally on wage and price controls. Its exports, as a matter of fact, are bargain priced as a result of the devalued dollar. And where we have commodity surpluses we have not tried to take advantage of other nations by seeking to reap quick profits. If anything it has been the other way as witness the grain deal with Russia.

So Canada is not exactly being a good neighbor when it raises the price of oil that this country so badly needs. Americans are not the only ones to resent the order. Strong criticism has been directed toward Ottawa by Alberta, the oil-rich western province that exports most of Canada's oil. Peter Lougheed, Alberta's premier, was furious, called the action discriminatory and feared the policy would severely damage his province's economy. In that event, the measure would be counterproductive.

Additionally, the Canadian oil industry thinks the pronouncement in Ottawa may serve to discourage investors at a time when it badly needs funds for oil explorations. Spokesmen saw the policy creating serious supply and trade relations problems.

Moreover the United States State Department has expressed concern in diplomatic but nevertheless unmistakable language. A statement from the department said "We had assumed that such proposals would be the subject of consultations not only in Canada but also with Canada's export customers."

For Arab nations in the Mideast to raise the price of oil is one thing, strictly a political ploy designed to gain major concessions from America. But for our erstwhile good neighbor to the north to act in a similar manner is both a surprise and disappointment. Hopefully, Washington and Ottawa may be able to effect a compromise. Failing that, there may be some cool homes in the United States this winter but not as cold as the relations that could develop between the two nations.

Internal Meddling

Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet party leader, criticized the United States Senate for an amendment urging free expression and free immigration, as interference in Russian internal affairs. In the same speech, he blasted the new Chilean junta which ended the Marxist regime, and he charged that "imperialist forces had aided and abetted" the forces that carried out the coup.

This is only to point out that Brezhnev's insinuation that the United States was involved has been flatly denied by the State Department and by the Chilean junta itself. Unfortunately, the Majority Leader, Mike Mansfield, who is often right in there pitching, as usual, to prove the U. S. wrong in such matters, wants a Senate investigation of United States' possible "participation" in Allende's overthrow.

Brezhnev called for an end to what he called "repression and atrocities" in Chile. It makes a difference to Brezhnev when Communists are the object of repression. He has never raised his voice when it was the Communists who were doing the repressing.

WASHINGTON — The possibility has now been raised that the celebrated political spy, Seymour Freidin, may have submitted false reports to the White House.

We have obtained copies of his colorful, confidential spy reports. One of the most sizzling passages, for example, recounts what the late President Lyndon Johnson was supposed to have told Newsweek columnist Ken Crawford off-the-record on June 18, 1971.

Freidin quotes LBJ as swearing "to do everything I possibly can" behind the scenes to defeat Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and "the lefies, the creeps and all their b----- friends" associated with him.

"They hate me; they always have," LBJ supposedly said. He vowed not to attend the Democratic convention, Freidin reported, because the McGovernites had

"rigged" convention procedures. "It won't be a convention," LBJ supposedly growled. "It will be a g----- d----- zoo."

"EVERYTHING I CAN" His refusal to attend, he was quoted as saying, "won't bother the b-----s. What will bother them is what they won't really know. I'm going to do everything I possibly can to beat the dirty, rotten SOB in 1972. You can bet on that."

He referred to McGovern

personally, according to the spy report, as "that silly SOB" and warned that the "b-----s are trying to kill the country; they don't give a damn. We have to find a common, unifying way to beat their heads to a pulp."

Crawford acknowledged that he had spoken to the late President on the phone and may have discussed the conversation with Freidin afterward at lunch. But Freidin's account, swore Crawford, was "made out of whole cloth."

Later, Freidin reported to the White House that the McGovern crowd suspected Lyndon Johnson was working secretly against them even after they made a pilgrimage to the LBJ ranch to mollify him.

LBJ'S PALS

On August 28, 1972, for example, Freidin quoted McGovern aide Gary Hart as saying: "Hell, we all knew LBJ's background for cunning and fast-dealing. Here is his man John Connally and his man Leonard Marks for Nixon. As a former President who was in the Democratic party, LBJ couldn't say that he'd be a Democrat for Nixon. But all his close pals were."

However, Hart told us: "I don't recall making any statement of that sort. And I don't remember even meeting Mr. Freidin. I absolutely was not with the traveling party in late August as Freidin implies."

Ex-Senator Fred Harris, D-Okla., took exception to still another Freidin spy report. Suggested Harris: "I imagine that every time Freidin needed a payment, he simply sat down and dreamed up a report."

Two former aides of Sen. Ed Muskie, D-Me., Berl Bernhard and Dick Stewart, also denied statements that Freidin attributed to them. "That's just baloney," Bernhard told us. "I'd say Freidin's reports were apocryphal and, as a matter of common decency, he should return the money he received."

DOESN'T KNOW HIM

Stewart also swore he never spoke to Freidin. "I wouldn't recognize him if I fell over him," said the former Muskie man.

Freidin was hired by President Nixon's political aide, Murray Chotiner, who paid him $1,000 a week to use his correspondent's credentials to spy on the Democrats. We reached Freidin in London where he is now a foreign correspondent.

He said his political spying had consisted simply of attending press briefings with other correspondents and picking up "gossip at cocktail parties." "I never had an exclusive interview with anybody," he said. He had passed on his reports, he said, in raw form. "I never saw a finished report," he told us.

The final reports were distributed by Chotiner to ex-White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, ex-Attorney General John Mitchell and ex-campaign director Clark MacGregor.

SUGGESTIONS

The reports not only contained alleged "intelligence" from inside the McGovern camp but occasional suggestions from Freidin on how to handle McGovern.

For instance, Freidin reported that "McGovern gets rattled when sharp questions are thrown at him" and suggested that McGovern be badgered at future news conference with these questions:

(1) What makes you think you are qualified to run for the presidential nomination?
(2) Have you ever had a piece of major legislation adopted?
(3) Where did you get the money for your present house?

"When I tossed these questions at him," confided Freidin in a report to Chotiner, "he ducked. . . . All three questions put to him can be rerun and used repeatedly. They shake him up."

Davenport made it to the managing editor's office navigating the creaky boards by memory. The boss stopped playing his instrument. "I don't know why I try to help needy cases," he said. "But I took my life in my hands and phoned Willicombe and begged him to ask the Chief to give you back your job. You can go back on the rewrite desk at a slight reduction in salary — forty a week."

The reporter grinned. "Oh, no," he said softly. "Oh, no you don't. Your job now depends on getting me back. If I don't return, you're out of work. I'll be willing to let bygones be bygones for $75 a week."

Fowler paid. He broke his mandolin pick. Years later, I asked Davenport the moral of the story. "To succeed," he said, "first get yourself fired." . . .

The Agnew Ambush

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The inability of President Nixon and the Justice Department to find a clean way out of the dirty in-fighting now swirling about Vice President Spiro Agnew is raising a serious new challenge to Mr. Nixon's once vaunted political judgment, so badly scarred in the Watergate scandals.

Worse yet, the seeming lack of any viable political policy inside the White House to deal with the swelling Agnew problem threatens a schism that may well harden anti-Nixon sentiment within the party's pro-Agnew right wing.

The reason: Mr. Nixon's failure to give Agnew the kind of enthusiastic support he gave to his former top White House aides. As one Republican state chairman told us: "It looks like the President is not doing right by Agnew. He should stand up beside him publicly, or call for his resignation, but not try to shoot him down in a White House ambush."

Fairly or not, Republican politicians of all ideological persuasions are now leveling quiet but forceful criticism not at Agnew but at Richard

M. Nixon for what one described as "a badly botched job of politics."

The botch: with the White House perceived as having decided, however reluctantly, that Agnew must go and with most Republicans convinced that the White House itself has been secretly and unscrupulously promoting that theme, Agnew is suddenly revealed as having no intention to quit.

"They thought they could pat Gray him right out of there," one shrewd Midwest Republican pro complains. "They should have known that Agnew is not Pat Gray." The nomination of L. Patrick Gray to succeed J. Edgar Hoover as head of the FBI was withdrawn by Mr. Nixon at Gray's own request after he got caught in the coils of Watergate.

With the Vice President, events are operating on a different wavelength, at least for the present. Having rejected all pressures to quit, Agnew is now found by a Newsweek poll taken by Dr. George Gallup to be the beneficiary of a huge 66 per cent of the public who think he should not resign.

More important, only 40 per cent credit the President with acting "fairly" toward his Vice President.

That pro-Agnew sentiment is raising questions among some Republican leaders as to whether the Vice President now may try to exploit his political strength at the President's expense. Agnew has been on the receiving end of phone calls, letters and personal contacts with many such followers who are trying to make him speak out far more forcefully in his own behalf.

But Agnew is moving with great caution. Agnew intimates say he worries that any effort by him to rally party and public support could have one dangerous result: forcing voters to choose between him and President Nixon.

"That's the last thing we want as of today," one such Agnew supporter told us. "If we do that, both of us will lose in the end."

But in the face of what the Agnew camp — together with most of political Washington — believes to be a hard-nosed, White House-based, anti-Agnew operation, with his resignation as the objective, Agnew's uncustomary restraint may not last much longer. He has two speeches in California this week, one of them to a frankly partisan audience of Republican women in Los Angeles. He may unlimber some of the Agnew rhetoric then, but his most ardent backers aren't sure.

Moreover, the formation of an Agnew "defense fund," announced late last week, could offer him a national vehicle to demonstrate public support. Yet, Agnew's aides are curiously loath — as of today — to exploit the defense fund. One of the Vice President's oldest and strongest political allies, a Southern party leader, has not been asked to do a single thing on behalf of the Vice President.

For President Nixon, the worsening Agnew problem poses only hard questions. Top White House aides insist, publicly and privately, that the White House has had absolutely nothing to do with the attempted ambush of the Vice President and the continuing leaks of kickback horror stories. Some highly placed Republican politicians agree.

But with the White House Watergate denials still fresh, these White House denials of any share in the Agnew ambush are simply not believed, particularly not by Republican politicians so deeply embittered by Watergate.

Thus, one legacy of Watergate is to feed the suspicion that Mr. Nixon and the White House really are laying the plot for the Agnew ambush, further impairing the President's moral authority to deal with his latest crisis.

Mrs. Hamilton Fish Saves the Day

The mandolin was the only agreeable noise to come from "The New York American." It was a red-brick oven of a building with creaky floorboards and throbbing Hoe presses. The instrument was plunked by Gene Fowler, managing editor, who stood in the open doorway of his office massaging his ears with "Till We Meet Again," and caressed his eyes with a vista of rewrite men punching out fresh leads on old typewriters.

He used a celluloid pick to summon Walter Davenport, reporter. To be called to the managing editor's office could be very good news indeed, or, very bad. "Tomorrow morning," he said, "the suffragettes will parade up Fifth Avenue from Washington Arch. The women want the vote. I have word from the Chief at San Simeon that we are to give this parade good coverage. Mr. Hearst thinks that the ladies deserve the vote."

Davenport was as deceptively mild as Fowler. "Who wants to cover a parade?" he said. "What's the story?"

Mr. Fowler closed the music on a discordant note. "The story," he said portentously, "is Mr. Hearst. He wants it covered. I have a note from his secretary, J. Willicombe, stating that Mrs. Hamilton Fish will lead this parade on a horse."

"Mrs. Fish is a leader of New York society. Also, she is so rich that she uses her jeweled pendants once. Walter, you will cover this story as though your life depended on it. You earn what — fifty a week? By this time tomorrow night you may be in line at a soup kitchen."

Young Mr. Davenport was up early. He found a saloon on lower Fifth Avenue and sat behind a beer with a view of the parade. He made notes. Mrs. Hamilton Fish sat on her horse regally, nodding sedate bows to applause.

At noon, Davenport was back in "The New York American" office pounding out a favorable article for women's suffrage. In a two-column, 10 point lead, he described Mrs. Hamilton Fish as imperious and implacable on a dappled gray horse. The story made page one in the morning. In mid-afternoon, Fowler was plunking a sad song in his office. Coorway. He nodded to Davenport, who didn't think much about women except in certain specialized fields. Fowler's eyes were almost moist with pity. "The word has just come in," he said. "You are fired. You said that Mrs. Hamilton Fish, dear friend of the Hearst family, was on a dappled gray horse. The nag was white."

Davenport was stunned. "I think," he said cautiously, "there may have been fly specks on the saloon window." "Get your pay," said Fowler. For an ex-reporter, there is a panacea. (1) Get drunk at once; (2) Brood.

The young man got drunk and brave. He staggered over to the brownstone mansion of Mrs. Hamilton Fish, and got past a swallow-tailed butler by shoving him. The center hall was made of black and white marble stones. The floor, he was surprised to note, was the only one in the world which moved slowly counter-clockwise.

Davenport looked up. At the top of a grand staircase he saw a woman. "You," he shouted like a anarchist, "got me fired today. You and your damn horse." Mrs. Fish descended the steps regally.

"Obviously," she said, "you are intoxicated. Just what is your problem?" He told her. At first she was grim. Then she smiled. Then she chuckled. Then she held her bosom and laughed until the crystal chandelier tinkled. "Stand right where you are," she said. "I will see what I can do."

She phoned Mr. Hearst. The horse, she said, lying, was slightly more dappled than white. She was aware that Mr. Hearst expected precise, accurate reporting, but Mr. Walter Davenport happened to be an old family friend — which was also untrue — and if he remained fired, she would attend no more social functions with Mr. Hearst. Then she hung up.

Davenport thanked the lady. He hurried back to his sleazy furnished room on the West Side. He knew that some action would ensue, but he wasn't sure what kind. So he sat on the curb, waiting.

A "New York American" paper truck pulled up. Two beefy giants said:

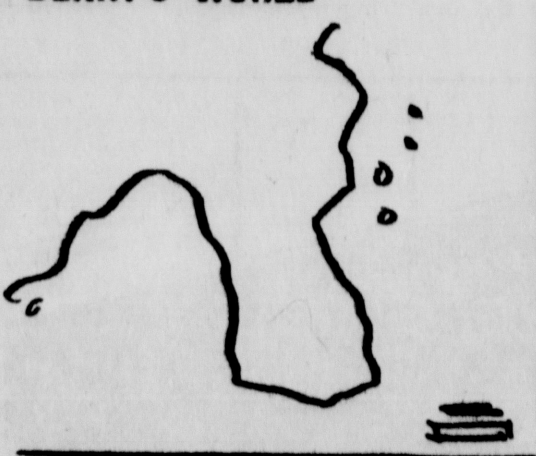

"Walter Davenport?" He nodded, suddenly. They yanked him onto the truck under the arms. Mr. Fowler wants to see you."

Davenport made it to the managing editor's office navigating the creaky boards by memory. The boss stopped playing his instrument. "I don't know why I try to help needy cases," he said. "But I took my life in my hands and phoned Willicombe and begged him to ask the Chief to give you back your job. You can go back on the rewrite desk at a slight reduction in salary — forty a week."

The reporter grinned. "Oh, no," he said softly. "Oh, no you don't. Your job now depends on getting me back. If I don't return, you're out of work. I'll be willing to let bygones be bygones for $75 a week."

Fowler paid. He broke his mandolin pick. Years later, I asked Davenport the moral of the story. "To succeed," he said, "first get yourself fired." . . .

Peking Inquires About World Bank

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — just harassing Chiang Kai-shek's regime. But the matter was introduced Thursday at the annual meeting of the IMF when World Bank confronts the two organizations with a number of political, legal and economic issues.

The way these issues are finally resolved could have a sizeable impact on global trading patterns and perhaps open the door to direct Western aid to the People's Republic.

Officials announced Thursday that Peking had made inquiries about membership in letters received Wednesday in Washington. An IMF official said the letters "certainly are a challenge to Taiwan's membership" in the two international financial organizations.

Officials said it was not clear whether Red China actually wants to join at this time or is

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — conspiring to protect the New Orleans pinball industry. Two New Orleans pinball distributors accused of paying the district attorney $164,000 in bribes to ignore illegal pinball gambling were also acquitted.

Immediately after verdict was announced, Garrison, his voice quivering with emotion, told newsmen, "The Department of Justice and the U.S. government is absolutely corrupt. But this time they got beat."

Garrison, who is running for a fourth term in the November elections, is still under investigation by the Internal Revenue Service for possible income tax fraud, a case he called "blatantly fraudulent."

"I don't think the federal government will be finished with me for years," Garrison said. "But, conversely, I don't think I will be finished with the federal government for years. If they want to, I'll dance with them again and I'll beat them again."

U.S. Attorney Gerald J. Gallinhouse, chief prosecutor in the case, called Garrison's references to the "corrupt" Justice Department and federal government, "ludicrous and he knows it."

Acquitted on Bribery Charges Garrison Still Under IRS Probe

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — conspiring to protect the New Orleans pinball industry. Two New Orleans pinball distributors accused of paying the district attorney $164,000 in bribes to ignore illegal pinball gambling were also acquitted.

Immediately after verdict was announced, Garrison, his voice quivering with emotion, told newsmen, "The Department of Justice and the U.S. government is absolutely corrupt. But this time they got beat."

Garrison, who is running for a fourth term in the November elections, is still under investigation by the Internal Revenue Service for possible income tax fraud, a case he called "blatantly fraudulent."

"I don't think the federal government will be finished with me for years," Garrison said. "But, conversely, I don't think I will be finished with the federal government for years. If they want to, I'll dance with them again and I'll beat them again."

Ex-POW Unhappy Despite Dropped Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even though the charges against him have been dropped, lawyers for Marine Lt. Col. Edison W. Miller are protesting the Pentagon's failure to completely clear his name of allegations of misconduct while a prisoner of war in Vietnam.

An attorney for Miller, Robert B. Ingram, said the veteran Marine planned a news conference in St. Francisco later today. Pentagon officials said they were concerned he might publicly make accusations against other POWs concerning their conduct.

It was precisely this fear that prompted Navy Secretary John W. Warner to dismiss Thursday charges of mutiny, aiding the enemy and other misconduct against Miller, 41, of Tustin, Calif., and Navy Capt. Walter E. Wilber, 43, of Columbia Cross Roads, Pa., Pentagon sources said.

They said Warner reached his decision reluctantly, hoping to avoid "a long, ugly court fight" in which defense lawyers might hurt all POWs by making many of them relive their ordeals on the witness stand.

Instead of legal action, Warner publicly censured Miller and Wilber for "failing to meet the standards expected of officers" during their imprisonment and ordered them retired "in the best interests of the naval service."

Some military men said privately they objected to this course of action because it robbed the Code of Conduct of any legal authority.

Warner said through a Pentagon spokesman he had received sufficient evidence to drop the charges. But this time they got beat."

South Viets In Jungle Warfare

SAIGON (UPI) — Two waves of South Vietnamese soldiers jumped from helicopters into the rough jungles of the Central Highlands in a major drive to recapture a hilltop base overrun by Communists, military sources said today.

The sources said 350 South Vietnamese Green Beret troops were battling regular North Vietnamese infantrymen today on the third day of a push through the jungles to the Le Minh outpost, 230 miles north of Saigon.

They said the government forces were dropped by chopper into the area in two waves before dawn Wednesday after Saigon artillery teams softened up the region with a 1,000-round artillery barrage.

The South Vietnamese command said an estimated 2,000 North Vietnamese troops captured Le Minh Saturday, driving the 500 government defenders into the jungle.

The command declined to issue an official report on the counterattack, but a Foreign Ministry spokesman said Thursday the government "reserves its right to take appropriate measures" to regain the base.

"When you want to retake a base, I don't know how you can do that otherwise than military measures," the spokesman said when asked for details.

The Provisional Revolutionary Government (Viet Cong) accused the government Wednesday of launching fresh fighting in the Central Highlands and vowed to "resolutely inflict new counter blows on the reckless acts of the Saigon administration."

Meanwhile, rebel troops mounted blistering attacks on two strategic positions only seven miles south of Phnom Penh today, forcing the retreat of an estimated 160 government soldiers, field reports said.

The reports said the towns of Dei Kraham and Spear Bak, each defended by about 80 troops and located on Highway 2, were evacuated in the early morning hours in the face of fierce Communist-led assaults.

"My troops are exhausted," Maj. Ghou Chan, a battalion commander in the region, told UPI. "For the past 20 days, we have had 20 killed, 120 wounded and some reinforcements provided by the high command have deserted."

He said rebel forces in the area totaled six battalions, while his single battalion was down to only 160 men.

MRS. ROBERT LEE DAVIDSON
(Marion L. Barringer)

Barringer-Davidson Wedding Reported

Marion Louise Barringer, daughter of Mrs. Norma Barringer of West Shokan and the late David Barringer, became the bride of Robert Lee Davidson, son of Robert W. Davidson of Shokan, at Ashokan Methodist Church.

The Rev. Filson Reid officiated. Mrs. Vera Sickler provided wedding selections. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Robert S. Proper. She selected a floor length, Victorian-style gown with long sleeves. A high cap headpiece accented with seed pearls held her waist-length illusion veil. She carried a basket of yellow pompons.

Elizabeth A. Proper of Kingston was matron of honor for her sister in a floor length, green flowered chiffon gown fashioned with puffed sleeves. She carried a basket of yellow pompons.

Miss Dorothy Mackey of

Phoenicia was bridesmaid and Katherine Barringer, sister of the bride, served as flower girl. Miss Mackey wore an ivory chiffon gown styled with a flowered bodice and sheer puffed sleeves. She carried a basket of pink and yellow pompons. The flower girl's gown was identical to that of the matron of honor. She carried a basket of yellow pompons.

David Thomas of Shokan was best man. Ushers were William Davidson of Shokan, brother of the bridegroom; Robert Faulkner of Shandaken; Larry LaDuke of Plattsburg was ringbearer.

A reception was given at the bridegroom's home.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Ontario Central School, is employed at Rotron. Her husband is an alumnus of Ontario Central School, class of 1972.

The couple will reside in Tampa, Fla.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

Having a wedding in your family soon? Make your bridal bouquet last — and last. What a shame to let the beautiful flowers of the bride and her attendants wither and die. Why not preserve them? It's really very easy, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

You can use this same method to preserve garden flowers for fall and winter bouquets. Cut off the flower heads and replace the stem with No. 22 or No. 24 florist wire. Shasta Daisies, Pansies, Marigolds, Zinnias, Dahlias, Roses, Mums, and Queen Anne's Lace all dry beautifully with this method.

have dried completely, replace with dry borax and cornmeal. Be very careful when removing the flowers from the box because they will be very brittle. Use the soft paint brush to remove any mixture that has lodged in hard-to-get-at places.

Neighbors Lose Sleep to Chained Dog

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune. N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our neighbors just returned from a two-week vacation and I hope they had a good time because now I need one.

They left their dog CHAINED in the front yard! Another neighbor agreed to feed him daily, which was the only time the dog was quiet. The rest of the time he barked.

The first night, my husband got up at 4 a.m. to ask the owners to please take the dog inside, only to find there was no one home! The next day we found out the dog owners would be gone for two weeks! We nearly flipped.

Abby, if they couldn't find someone to keep the dog, they should have put it in a kennel. They are home now, thank heavens, but what do you think of people who would keep the whole neighborhood up with a barking dog for two weeks?

NERVES ON END
NERVES: What happened to you shouldn't happen to a dog. And what happened to that dog shouldn't happen to a dog, either. You should have immediately notified your local humane society.

DEAR ABBY: I was disappointed in your reply to the girl who resented having a male physician give her a breast and pelvic examination. She said she wanted to remain chaste for her husband. You said an examination of that kind would in no way violate her chastity.

I disagree with you. I am no prude, but I place a high value on the privacy of my body, and I do not care to share it with anyone other than the man I marry. A male physician is no different from any other man, and I wonder how many husbands would allow their wives to go to a male gynecologist if they knew how intimately their wives would be touched and examined.

I have heard the argument that male doctors see hundreds of female patients a month, so a woman doesn't have to feel ashamed, but since when does frequency alone justify an action?

There is only one female physician in Terre Haute, and I go to her for my annual physical. I feel strongly that we women have a right to protect our intimacy, and should not be treated like children by male physicians.

P.J.
DEAR P.J.: It is indeed your right to select a female physician if you wish, but a male gynecologist has about as much erotic feeling while examining female patients as an electrician has when he's looking for a loose connection.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a new one for you. Our son wants to be married this Christmas, and something has come up which prompts me (his father) to ask your advice.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

When our son and his girl friend decided on a wedding date, they immediately told the bride's parents of their intentions. To their surprise, her parents said they were not interested in funding the affair. My son became upset and decided to go ahead and have a wedding even if he had to pay for it himself.

Our question: Should the bride's parents be invited or not? And if we invite them, should they be accorded all the honors and privileges of the bride's parents?

We, the groom's family, say no. Our future daughter-in-law says she wants her parents to get the full treatment even though they aren't paying for anything.

What is your opinion?

GROOM'S FATHER

DEAR FATHER: If the bride's parents are not funding the wedding because they have no funds, and your son is willing to foot the bill, then they should be given the full treatment. If they refuse to finance the wedding because they disapprove of the marriage, you may not have to worry about their presence at all. Arrange for a meeting with them and get the facts.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Benjamin - Bush Marriage

Bonita Sue Benjamin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Benjamin of Lanesville, became the bride of Michael E. Bush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Bush of Phoenixia.

The Rev. Ralph Darmstadt officiated at the double ring ceremony at Phoenixia United Methodist Church. Gary Cramer, organist, provided wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of silk organza and Alencon lace which was fashioned with a detachable chapel-length train. Her two-tiered silk illusion veil was attached to a headpiece of lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade of daisies, roses and ivy.

Debra Benjamin of Lanesville was maid of honor for her sister in a blue organza gown with white lace accents. The gown was styled with lantern sleeves. A velvet bow held her flirtation veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers accented with ivy.

Attendants were Jacqueline Ostrander of Prattville, cousin of the bride; Brenda Carr of Shandaken; Elaine O'Rourke of Tannersville; and Susan Balash of Kingston, sister of the bridegroom. Their nine green gowns were identical in styling to the honor attendant's. They wore matching headpieces and carried bouquets of mixed flowers with ivy.

Tammy Balash of Kingston, niece of the bridegroom, served as flower girl. Her gown was identical to the honor attendant's. She wore a bow headpiece and carried a colonial nosegay.

Robert Janitz was best man. Ushers were Harvey German Jr.; Joseph Bush, brother of the bridegroom; Dennis Gale; and Jeffrey Shubert. Raymond Benjamin, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception was given at the parish hall in Phoenixia. The bride attended Hunter-Tannersville High School and is employed by Heick's Market in Shandaken. Her husband, an alumnus of Ontario High School, is employed by McGrath's Market in Phoenixia. After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple will reside at Skyrise Apartments, Phoenixia.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE
SOMETIMES THEY LOOK BETTER THAT WAY!

Dear Heloise:
Have you ever put your slacks on backwards? Fun, isn't it, to have to always check to find back from front?

I sew a lot, and always have bits of hem lace left over. One day when I made a pair of pants, I stitched a little loop of the lace into the front seam, just at the top. This has been so effective that I do all of my pants this way. The color doesn't matter since it doesn't show.

BETTER MOUSE TRAP!

Dear Heloise:
Another use for nylon net — it netted me a mouse, not a man!

The cheese disappeared from two traps. Next time I put a two-inch band of nylon net over the top of the cheese and taped it to the back of the trap. I fastened it loosely so the metal part that holds the cheese and the hood, could move up enough to engage the hook.

Of course, maybe the fact that the mouse had banqueted the night before without harm, led it to return unafraid, but this time it wasn't so easy!

A Tricky Housewife

Don't be terrified and worry your pretty little head over this. If and when it comes, we energetic inventive, enduring homemakers will conquer our fears.

No doubt an appropriate department of the government, local store and, perhaps shopkeepers, will have charts available of the metric equivalents of linear measure. We will eventually get used to it.

After all — you got used to me!

Veronica Lazzaro was hired as a teacher aid, Karin Hochberg was hired as a communications specialist and Miriam Schaul was hired as a part time speech therapist. Alan Hilliard was appointed director of special education and Marie Alio was given permanent certification as an account clerk after passing a Civil Service examination for the position.

The board also authorized several of its members to attend the annual convention of the New York State School Boards Association in Syracuse, Oct. 28-30. Board President George Langwick of New Paltz will be the voting delegate.

Dr. Jack Roosa, executive officer for BOCES, told the Freeman following Thursday night's regular meeting of the board, that the board would be signing contracts with John R. Shults of Kingston for the construction of a 35,000 square foot building, "somewhere in the Rosendale - Tillson - Stone Ridge area."

Dr. Roosa said that a site has not been finalized but that 10 to 15 acres would be needed. "We're talking about just the

Since we only have students we can improve the concept of vocational education in the eyes of the student and their parents, facilities, as such we can build it would be quite a goal. This will be the type of facility where vocational students will want to go."

Roosa said that two of BOCES' existing facilities would be closed with the move to the new building. He estimated the cost of renting those facilities not identified at "around $80,000 a year. There's no doubt it will cost us money," he said, but we think it is well worth it."

In other action, the board accepted three resignations and made five appointments. Shirley Hathway resigned as a teacher aid. Paul Ruff resigned as a

United Way's '74 Goal... 'Ambitious but Attainable'

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

United Way of Ulster County, firmly convinced that if it can get its message to the people, the people will respond, kicks off its 18th annual fund-raising campaign on Oct. 4 with a goal of $410,000.

United Way leaders outlined their plans for the 1974 campaign at a press conference in the Gov. Clinton Hotel on Thursday, attended by representatives of all but two of the 16 agencies who will benefit from the drive. There was no representative from the Jewish Community Center due to the religious holiday. No reason was given for the absence of the representative from the United Service Organization (USO).

William Sloane, campaign chairman, described this year's goal of $410,000—only about $6,000 more than last year's unmet goal—as "attainable but still ambitious." "This goal must be attained," Sloane declared, pointing out that requests from the 16 member agencies for next year were in excess of $600,000, up about $100,000 from last year's requests. "Unfortunately, the community is not ready to support $600,000," Sloane, a vice president at Rotron Inc., said.

Sloane, in reviewing last year's campaign, which had a goal of $404,000, but raised $375,000, noted the "significant turn around in direction" that campaign took in relation to previous campaigns. He cited the "dynamic leadership" of last year's campaign chairman Al Brocco for "covering every facet of the campaign in depth."

This year's campaign leaders have built on that, Sloane indicated, establishing a speakers bureau under James B. Thompson with 25 representatives available to tell the United Way story; a summer-long in depth training program for staff members and volunteers in fund raising and a summer program of business participation where each community will have its individual industrial division, along with a special events committee.

"We firmly believe that the community is only superficially aware of what United Way is and what it means," Sloane said. "Once they become fully aware, $375,000 (the amount raised last year) will be a drop in the bucket."

United Way is also increasing its efforts toward a soliciting contributions through payroll deductions, something Sloane called "of paramount importance." "United Way will not succeed without payroll deductions in every possible business," he said, reporting that extensive work was done in that area during the summer.

Glenn Sutherland, United Way president, also took the opportunity to cite the boards of directors of the various agencies, referring to them as the "backbone" of the organization and primarily responsible for the "dramatic turn around" last year.

Sloane also announced the addition of United Way's 16th agency, the Ulster County Homemaker Service Inc. Mrs. Carol Crews is president of that organization and Mrs. John Plasse is its executive director.

Mrs. Crews gave a brief report on the activities of the homemaker service, noting that it has been in existence for about three years and during that time has contributed almost 12,000 hours of service. The Homemakers Service screens, trains and supervises women who work in the home under emergency conditions such as when a mother is absent from the home due to illness.

The other 15-member agencies include the YM and YWCA, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, Association for Retarded Children, Ulster County Blood Bank, Boys Club, Children's Rehabilitation Center, Family Service Center, worship.

Gateway Industries, Jewish Community Center, Mental Health Association, Red Cross, Salvation Army and the USO. The kick-off dinner for all volunteers and interested persons will be held next Thursday night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel with a cocktail hour to precede at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the United Way office in the hotel.

United Way, in a departure from previous years, will extend its kick-off activities through Ulster County Blood Bank, Boys Club, Children's Rehabilitation Center, Family Service Center, worship.

Ryan Breaks Strikeout Record; Aaron Rained Out

Pirates Live Through Two Nightmares

By United Press International
The Pittsburgh Pirates lived through a familiar nightmare—and an unfamiliar one—Thursday night.

The Pirates lost a game they couldn't really afford to lose on a wild pitch. And that was certainly nothing new for them. When Chris Zachary wild pitched home Greg Luzinski in the 13th inning to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over the Pirates, it brought back memories of the ninth inning of last year's final playoff game with Cincinnati when Bob Moose wild pitched home the deciding run.

But the unusual feature of this game was how Luzinski got to third base in the first place. Reaching second was nothing special as he singled and was sacrificed to second.

The strategy called for an intentional walk to Bob Boone and Zachary was supposed to throw four wide ones. But the first one got too close to the plate and Boone slapped it for a single to send Luzinski to third.

Remember that the next time somebody proposes that a batter being intentionally walked should be just waived to first.

Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh said, "that's the first time I saw anybody swing at an intentional ball and get a hit. I saw a guy hit into a double play once trying to do that."

Murtaugh added, "sure it's a tough loss. We've got to hope the Mets lose too."

Boone said, "the pitch had three inches of the plate and was high. I figured it was a good pitch to hit and I wasn't even thinking of making an out. I was ready to hit. It's the first time I ever did that but I've thought about doing it before."

Larry Bowa, who was at bat when Zachary uncorked the wild pitch, said, "the pitch was a slider, low and inside. It skidded in front of (Manny) Sanguillen and got away. It was a tough pitch to stop. You always try to bust your butt when you're in last place and playing a contender."

Sanguillen said, "the ball bounced in front of the plate, hit my glove and got by."

Luzinski said, "when I was on third, I told (Richie) Hebner I was going to score on a wild pitch and then it happened."

Of course, three more teams—St. Louis, Chicago and Montreal—still have outside shots at winning. St. Louis downed Chicago 2-0 in the only other National League game. The Los Angeles-Atlanta game was rained out and canceled (Los Angeles had to fly to the West Coast Thursday night so the game couldn't be made up) and that dimmed Hank Aaron's chances of catching Babe Ruth this season.

There's even a real longshot at a five-way tie for first place. If Chicago sweeps four from New York, Montreal sweeps three from Pittsburgh and St. Louis wins two of three from Philadelphia, and then Pittsburgh wins a makeup game.

New York (4) Away (4) New York at Chicago (4), Sept. 28-29 (21-30).

With San Diego, there would be a five-way tie for first place. But if New York wins at least two of its four games from to break the record, got his 15th would have been over and Ryan hitter to pace New York over the eighth inning. He then went because California won it in the 11th. before getting Rich Reese on three pitches for No. 383 to end the 11th inning.

Reggie Cleveland's one-hitter and Lou Brock's two-run homer paced the Cards to triumph over Chicago. A sixth-inning single by Ken Rudolph was the only hit off Cleveland. Burt Hooton suffered the loss.

Nolan Ryan snapped Sandy Koufax' single season major league strikeout record of 382 with 16 strikeouts as California downed Minnesota. Ryan, who had thrown him out, the inning Pat Dobson hurled a nine-game.

Nolan's Chase Is Over

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Nolan Ryan's chase of Sandy Koufax' record has ended. The hard-throwing right hander from Alvin, Tex., is baseball's all-time single season strikeout king.

"I'm glad it's over with," sighed the 26-year-old ace of the California Angels' pitching staff between sips of champagne after fanning 16 Minnesota Twins in 11 innings Thursday night. "Now I can sit back and spectate."

The total gave him 383 strikeouts for the year—one more than Hall of Famer Koufax had for the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1965.

Pitching the last three innings with a painful cramp in his right hamstring, Ryan struck out Rich Reese for the last out in the Minnesota 11th. The Angels won the game 5-4 in the bottom of the inning on Rich Scheinblum's pinch-hit double.

Ryan, who finished his second season as an Angel with a 21-16 record, recalled a conversation he once had with Tom Seaver when he was with the New York Mets.

"I remember we both thought nobody would ever break Koufax' record," he smiled. "I'm glad to have it and 29 wins too. It wouldn't mean as much if I'd only won 19 games."

In the Minnesota eighth Ryan tied the record by striking out Steve Bye to end the inning. He had 1-2 counts on Rod Carew and Tony Oliva in the ninth and the same count on Bye in the 11th.

Reese, a .151 hitter, entered the game as a pinchrunner for Harmon Killebrew in the ninth and struck out swinging on three straight Ryan pitches. A crowd of 9,100 then gave the popular Angel pitcher a five minute standing ovation.

Ryan this season became the fifth man in baseball history to record two no-hitters. They came in Kansas City May 15 and at Detroit July 15.

"This compared equally with them (the no-hitters)," Ryan said.

The 6-foot-2, 180-pound Ryan, "They ought to give Cy Young the Nolan Ryan Award," 10 hits in winning his seventh bubbled Harry Dalton, the straight game, wouldn't go that far but said he wanted the man who helped build the American League Cy Young Baltimore Orioles into an award.

Knicks Favored to Repeat in NBA

NEW YORK UPI — The oddsmakers figuring the Knicks New York Knicks intend giving will successfully defend their Dave DeBusschere the 1973-74 National Basketball Association championship as a going away present.

DeBusschere, a guiding force in securing two NBA titles for New York in four years, plays out his last season for the Knicks before moving to the New York Nets of the rival ABA in an executive capacity.

The Big D and Bill Bradley once again make up a formidable forward wall that along with Willis Reed has ideas of platooning his troops. Jerry Lucas, an oft-rumored figure in a trade for Jack Marin of Houston, fits in perfectly at center or forward.

Bearded Phil Jackson is of the same mold and can handle either position well. John Gianelli kept his cool as a rookie and demonstrated a keen knack for blocking shots when he filled in for Reed.

The Knicks released Dick Barnett as a player and signed the 13-year veteran as an assistant coach. Barnett's forte, like Holzman's, is teaching guards the art of defense. He helped develop Meminger as a top backcourt man, continued the molding of Henry Bibby that John Wooden began at UCLA, and now has Allie McGuire as a willing pupil.

McGuire is the nephew of Knick chief scout Dick McGuire and the son of former Knick Al McGuire.

Tom Riker and Milt Williams are back for second shots with the Knicks. Riker at forward and Williams in the backcourt. Harthorne Wingo, the last man signed on last season, is fixing to secure his berth at forward.

A doubleheader is scheduled today in the Exchange Club Junior Football League at Dietz Stadium. Mercurys and Apollos play at 6 p.m., followed by Atlas and Titans at 7:15 p.m.

Saturns face Agenas in the Sunday contest at 12 noon.

Soccer Setback For Marist "11"

POUGHKEEPSIE

Fordham University scored three times in the second half to defeat Marist College, 4-2, in varsity soccer Wednesday.

After two Ken Hayes goals had erased a Len Kelley score to give Marist a 2-1 halftime lead, Armando Giordano hit the net twice and Peter Won-Ken scored one to power the Rams to victory.

Marist is 0-1-1 on the season. Fordham is 1-0.

In cross country, Marist topped the Merchant Marine Academy, 18-42. Former Kingston High School harrier Bill Krempel was sixth in the meet in 26:52.

The Lonely Runner

NEW YORK (AP) — Jealous spectators jeering her as she passes keep Kathrine Switzer from being lonely as a long distance runner.

"The first few years it was hell," said the 26-year-old marathoner. "The men used to get their egos out of joint. It usually was the fat guys on the corner with their beer and cigars who would shout 'look at that stupid broad.'"

"With the women, it was looks that could kill."

"But during the Boston Marathon one year, there were two really fat women cheering their heads off and clapping. One even got down on her knees as I passed and yelled 'keep running honey, because if you don't you'll look just like me.'"

Kathrine, one of the few women among the 400 runners expected to endure the 26 miles, 385 yards in Sunday's fourth annual New York City marathon in Central Park, admits she does have a weight problem. But nothing that a few days of virtual starvation won't cure.

"That's why I run in tennis dresses," the comely athlete said. "I have big thighs and if I wear shorts my legs chafe. A lot of people think I do it to be cute and get attention, but I don't need that."

She is, however, actively seeking attention of a sort. Recognition for all women distance runners and equality with men. Her endeavors, including a tour of Europe to campaign for equal rights, put her $5,000 in debt.

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland established its supremacy last weekend in alien territory—the American Football Conference East—by ending the Miami Dolphins' victory string.

This weekend the Raiders are out to establish a beachhead in their own territory, the AFC West, where all four residents—the Raiders, Kansas City Chiefs, Denver Broncos and San Diego Chargers—are tied for first place.

The Raiders invade Kansas City to play the Chiefs Sunday. The NFL scorecard for last week was seven right, four wrong, plus two ties. After two weeks, the card is 19-5-2 for .792.

So here goes:
Oakland (1-1) at Kansas City (1-1) — The line says Kansas City is a six-point underdog. But the Raiders will have momentum after beating the Dolphins. RAIDERS 28, CHIEFS 14.

St. Louis (2-0) at Dallas (2-0) — St. Louis was an underdog last week against Washington. Two upsets in a row. Not likely. COWBOYS 42, CARDINALS 41.

Green Bay (1-0-1) at Minnesota (2-0) — With two rugged defenses, this is where the quarterbacking will key the outcome. Green Bay's three signal callers don't equal Francis Tarkenton. VIKINGS 30, PACKERS 24.

Los Angeles (2-0) at San Francisco (1-1) — Los Angeles has shown a lot more than expected. San Francisco less. The Ram secondary is still suspect. San Francisco quarterback John Brodie isn't. 49ERS 30, RAMS 27.

New York Jets (1-1) at Buffalo (1-1) — With Joe Namath out Al Woodall handled the Jets capably last week. It's not can the Jets stop the running of Buffalo's O.J. Simpson, but can the Jets outscore the Bills. Yes. JETS 28, BILLS 24.

Pittsburgh (2-0) at Houston (0-2) — On any given Sunday ... goes the old saying. But this won't be that given day. STEELERS 35, OILERS 14.

Washington (1-1) at Philadelphia (0-1-1) — Coach George Allen and his Washington players won't have any mercy on the Eagles. REDSKINS 42, EAGLES 17.

New England (0-2) at Miami (1-1) — Miami might have a letdown after losing to Oakland, but the Dolphins say they can now concentrate on football, not records. DOLPHINS 45, PATRIOTS 21.

New Orleans (0-2) at Baltimore (0-2) — New Orleans has given up more points (102) in two games than Baltimore once did for an entire season. COLTS 28, SAINTS 20.

New York Giants (1-0-1) at Cleveland (1-1) — Cleveland will have to bounce back after a loss to Pittsburgh. GIANTS 24, BROWNS 16.

Cincinnati (1-1) at San Diego (1-1) — Johnny Unitas is two yards shy of 40,000 yards for his career. The oddsmakers like Cincinnati. But for sentimental reasons let's go with the Chargers. CHARGERS 23, BENGALS 20.

Chicago (0-2) at Denver (1-1) — The Denver running corps, mainly Floyd Little, is hobbled with leg injuries. Nevertheless, it isn't the week for the Bears to pull off an upset. BRONCOS 28, BEARS 21.

Atlanta (1-1) at Detroit (0-1-1) — The Falcons have the second-best scoring attack in the NFL. But that's on 62 points in one game and a shutout in the next one. LIONS 23, FALCONS 7.

Arlington, Wallkill Hoople's Specials

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prognosticator

HOOPLE MANOR
Egad, friends, the trees have barely begun to lose their colorful autumnal dress and we are faced with one of the fall's most crucial scholastic football weeks.

Yes, dear readers, the title hopefuls will be separated from the not-so-goods this week, the third on the schedule. It's the week the 50-50 teams either go up or down and the perfects either pull away or return to the rest of the field.

And quite a week it will be, so it's on to the forecast:

ARLINGTON 18, KINGSTON 8

Perhaps you're surprised by this revelation, especially since it comes right on the heels of my superlative computation of last week's Newburgh game, but my friends I'm afraid Kingston will fall back into the ranks of the losers after this outing. Arlington is a team after my own heart. It throws, throws, then throws some more. As for Kingston, a good defense such as the one it possesses will cut down the Admirals' scoring, but I'm afraid KHS won't nearly get as many points of its own — um-kumph!

SAUGERTIES 12, LOURDES 0

The Sawyers taste their first drop of victory this season as they keep lowly Lourdes off the scoreboard and scrounge around for enough offense to get what's necessary, heh-heh.

RED HOOK 21, ONTEORA 0

Red Hook's ready to roll and roll it will, right on up to Boiceville and right on back to home base with a convincing triumph over the determined Indians, har-rumph!

ROUNDOUT 6, LIBERTY 0

Oh, why do we have to pick a winner of this game? Defense is fine, but 6-6, 6-6, 0-0, 0-6, games are driving me and my computer crazy. Rountout has been just a little better than Liberty so far, and while that isn't saying much, it is enough to separate these teams for a selection.

ELLENVILLE 14, NEW PALTZ 7

The Ellys want very much to repeat as league champions and they must win this game to do it. Both teams are coming off shutouts, but both are capable of scoring. Ellenville will score just a few points more than the Hugies, un-kumph!

I must go with Wallkill until it proves otherwise.

My record for the first two weeks is a somewhat sputtering 7-5-1, but that will no doubt improve following Saturday's perfect score — heh-heh!

I'm off to another dazzling start in the collegiate ranks, posting an .808 percentage so far, following last week's super .849. Now go on to this week's picks:

Air Force 27, New Mexico 12; Arizona State 37, Colorado State 21; Arkansas 22, Iowa State 14; Army 17, California 12; Bowling Green 28, W. Michigan 21; Cornell 21, Colgate 12; Colorado 12, Baylor 7; Columbia 14, Bucknell 13; East Carolina 37, Furman 18; Georgia Tech 33, Clemson 23; Harvard 32, Massachusetts 22; Illinois 17, West Virginia 10; Kentucky 26, Indiana 21; Minnesota 27, Kansas 12; Penn 31, Lafayette 8.

Also, LSU 28, Rice 7; UCLA 22, Michigan State 12; Michigan 30, Navy 8; Mississippi 14, Southern 12; Wisconsin 14, Dartmouth 31, New Hampshire 10; Missouri 16, North Carolina 15; Northwestern 24, Pitt 21; Ohio State 42, TCU 20; Penn State 27, Iowa 21; Princeton 18, Rutgers 15; Notre Dame 28, Purdue 13; Southern Cal 28, Oklahoma 16; Auburn 22, Tennessee 20; Texas 25, Texas Tech 14; Alabama 40, Vanderbilt 21; Washington 30, Syracuse 21; and Yale 28, Connecticut 20, boola-boola!

Phillips Dies

XENIA, Ohio (UPI) — The man who revolutionized the sport of harness racing by inventing the mobile starting gate, Stephen G. Phillips, died at a nursing home Wednesday. He was 86.

Phillips, the first inductee into the Harness Racing Hall of Fame at Goshen, N.Y., gained a patent on the starting gate in 1950 and, as a result of his will hold a Muscular Dystrophy invention, the sport grew from shoos, Sunday at 9 a.m. at the new Palatz Rod and Gun Club.

The Ulster County Sportsmen will hold a Muscular Dystrophy shoos, Sunday at 9 a.m. at the new Palatz Rod and Gun Club.

HIGHLAND 14, MARLBORO 0

Highland hasn't exactly been overpowering, but it has been workman-like in knocking off Rondout and Ellenville. The Dukes have been a disappointment so far and, although they might wake up Saturday, I'm afraid they're in for defeat No. 2.

WALLKILL 21, PINE BUSH 18

This could be the week Wallkill gets knocked off. The Bushmen, however, didn't show quite as much against Red Hook last week as I'd anticipated, so

Costello Leads

Katrine Traps

ST. REMY
Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club held its final Wednesday night shoot of the season last night and Bill Costello emerged victorious with a .960 score in trap.

Bill Kopf was second with .933 and was followed by: Jim Prio, .880; Paul Kristof, .860; Ed Caban, Bob Schmedake and Jerry Todaro, .833; Ole Christensen, .800; Ed Riggio, .760; and Grover Ellsworth Sr., .746.

Bob Maine won the skeet shoot with an .800. Grover Ellsworth Jr., Costello, and Schmedake came in with .760 each.

The Ulster County Sportsmen will hold a Muscular Dystrophy shoos, Sunday at 9 a.m. at the new Palatz Rod and Gun Club.

ELLENVILLE 14, NEW PALTZ 7

The Ellys want very much to repeat as league champions and they must win this game to do it. Both teams are coming off shutouts, but both are capable of scoring. Ellenville will score just a few points more than the Hugies, un-kumph!

OCS Hockey Girls Win

BOICEVILLE were Tina Fisher, Karen Frangello, Jeanne May, Anita Shultis and Sandy Winnie.

Co-captain Lee Houseman scored two goals and Ann Schroeder added another, as Onteora High girls blanked Rhinebeck High, 3-0, in field hockey. The rugged Onteora defense, anchored by co-captain Linda Faulkner did not permit Rhinebeck a single shot on goal. Onteora had 14.

Colleen Duffy, Sue Schlegel and Linda Williams also starred on offense. Assisting on defense

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

WHIRL GIRL: (Q.): I met Kenny skating. He likes me and gave me a ring a week later. But by then I had met Jim and liked him more than Kenny. Kenny asked me for his ring back but I had on Jim's. Kenny's was at home. Kenny tripped Jim up while he was skating and Jim broke his ankle.

While Jim was in the hospital I met Wes. I really like Wes. But Jim is out now and says I have to choose between him and Wes and Kenny. I don't know what to do.—Undecided in Pennsylvania.

(A.): You sound very young and very fickle and very inconsiderate of your friends. I am afraid you have, consciously or unconsciously, been trying to make them jealous of each other.

Tell Jim the truth—that you are too young to go steady with one boy but would like to be his friend if he can forgive you for being foolish. Give him his ring back. Give Kenny his ring back. If Wes has given you a ring, give it back, too.

Then try not to be foolish again.

Nixon Committee to Release $20 Million Fund List

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting under court order, President Nixon's campaign committee today prepared to release the list of contributors who gave $20 million in secret to Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Common Cause, the self-styled citizens' lobby, waged a year-long legal battle with the committee to force public release of the names of those who contributed to the Nixon campaign before a new federal law requiring full disclosure took effect April 7, 1972.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Joseph C. Waddy granted the committee a 60-day waiting period, ending today, when he ruled in favor of Common Cause in July.

The $20 million was raised by Nixon fund raisers before April 7, 1972, while $35 million was raised and reported after that date.

Lumped in with the $20 million in contributors on today's list were the donors of $6 million whose names were made public in partial settlement of the Common Cause suit just before the election in November.

Largest of those contributors were W. Clement Stone, the Chicago insurance tycoon who gave $1 million, and Richard Mellon Scaife of Pittsburgh who contributed $800,000.

That list covered contributors who gave between Jan. 1, 1971, and March 9, 1972.

But the Nixon committee continued to refuse to disclose the names of those who gave between March 10 and April 6, peak of a drive by Nixon aides to raise money by promising contributors that their names would be kept secret.

Testimony in court and in depositions taken in various suits and legal actions arising from the campaign has indicated that Nixon campaign headquarters was deluged with cash and checks in the days before the new law took effect.

The names of some of the major contributors have become public in recent weeks, notably five corporations who admitted illegally dipping into corporate funds to make their contributions.

In its quarterly report to the General Accounting Office earlier this month, the Nixon committee said it had returned $395,000 in such contributions from Goodyear Tire & Rubber, Gulf Oil, Ashland Oil, Phillips Petroleum and American Airlines.

The committee said it did not know corporate funds had been used for contributions.

Writer Vows Fight to Keep Notes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A free-lance writer who is working on a book about the Watergate scandal has vowed to fight in court against an attempt by Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox to obtain his notes.

A spokesman for Cox acknowledged Thursday that author Andrew St. George of New York had been served with a subpoena for the notes, but suggested it was St. George's idea.

The controversy surfaced as the Senate Watergate Committee was in recess until Tuesday after listening to testimony on alleged "dirty tricks" in the 1972 presidential campaign.

There were three related developments Thursday:

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger denied a petition filed by a citizens' group to stop the Senate Watergate hearings. Burger refused without comment a request by the National Citizens' Committee for Fairness to the Presidency to overturn a lower court decision which allowed the hearings to continue.

—The latest installment of a secret list of contributors to President Nixon's re-election campaign was to be released late today. The donations were made prior to April 7, 1972, when a new federal campaign disclosure law took effect. A federal court ordered that the names be made public in connection with a suit filed by Common Cause, a citizens' lobby.

St. George said he was "slapped with the subpoena" by lawyers on Cox' staff late Wednesday at the conclusion of what he had been told would be a "confidential, off-the-record chat." He said it directed him to appear before the Watergate grand jury next Wednesday, bringing his notes on conversations with Frank Sturgis, one of the original Watergate defendants.

St. George said the subpoena violated freedom of press.

But James Doyle, a spokesman for Cox, said St. George told prosecutors "voluntarily" that he had information that "could have bearing on some of the defendants in the Watergate case."

Doyle said St. George "invited the subpoena because he indicated he may be only co-owner of the notes along with a publisher." He added that prosecutors "felt it was their obligation to pursue any possible evidence."

Trade Bill Would Aid Japan and Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive trade bill tentatively approved by a House committee would give President Nixon broad powers to make trade deals with Japan and Europe but slap a stiff restraint on trade with the Soviets.

The bill would give the President extensive power to raise or lower U.S. trade barriers for the trade deals to be negotiated next year, although not the nearly unrestricted power he asked.

But it would prohibit U.S. trade concessions for the Soviets unless Nixon determines annually that they do not deny emigration for Jews and other citizens and that they do not impose exorbitant exit fees.

Major provisions of the bill besides the Soviet trade concessions restraint would:

- Authorize the President to lower U.S. tariffs on a sliding scale for trade deals.
- Authorize the President to increase tariffs 20 per cent above present rates or to 50 per cent above the protectionist 1934 Smoot-Hawley level, whichever is highest.
- Authorize the President for the first time to negotiate reduction of countries' nontariff barriers subject to Congress' veto.
- Raise relief payments for workers who lose jobs because of foreign imports to an estimated maximum $170 a week from the present $111.
- Authorize the President to take unrestricted action for 150 days to curb imports aggravating U.S. inflation, and to increase U.S. tariffs up to 15 per cent against imports hurting the U.S. balance of trade. After 150 days, Congress would have to decide whether to extend the authority for either of the special actions.
